

Wendy Wood

This month at Wendy Wood the Sunflowers have been archaeologists, finding lots of dinosaur bones all covered in mud! There were many discussions about how old bones might be and what dinosaur they belong to. The children have also been very interested in whittling and wood carving. We have been making our own very special wands, by using the tools carefully and listening to instructions.

In the wood we have discovered we have two very special friends - ducks! The children have named them Popcorn and Porridge. They are a mated pair of ducks who we hope will build their nest in our little stream. We hope they will keep returning to say hello to us all.

We have experienced some very strange weather recently and had to run back to Nursery in our wellies after we started to hear thunder. The children started to sing "I hear thunder, I hear thunder" as we all went back to shelter in our room.

The Sunflowers have been experimenting with mark making by using charcoal from our old fires to create pictures on the trees. They have also been writing the letter of their names and it always surprises them when the marks are still there when we next go to the wood!
