

Wendy Wood

Signs of spring have started to appear in Wendy Wood and the children's faces beamed with excitement when they first spotted the daffodils that had appeared in the entrance way and instantly searched the woodland for any other changes. The children used magnifying glasses to get a closer look at the individual features of the plants and demonstrated care and concern for them as they did so. We cannot wait to see what the rest of the season will bring to Wendy Wood.

The recent windy weather provided a lot of branches and twigs for the children to use and incorporate into their play. The children were keen to create a Gruffalo den and with adult support used a range of different tools to cut and shape their chosen materials. They have been using a range of tools including mallets, secateurs and bow saws to cut and reshape the branches.

The Willows spotted a hole outside the fence in the woods. The children were keen to discuss how it appeared and what type of animal had created it. They helped to put out the wildlife camera to help us discover who it could be – we can't wait to find out!
